Hanging Film with a Partner

You can certainly install window film by yourself, but it is easier to install film if someone helps you. The “two-man peel” is the good method for installing film on any size window.

Once your film is cut to size and ready to hang, and the glass and frame are prepared for installation, follow the steps below:

1. First spray the window on which you will be installing the film.
2. Have your partner hold the pattern up off the floor with their index finger and thumb on both upper corners.
3. The second person lightly mists the liner side of the pattern and then begins removing the liner while at the same time spraying the exposed adhesive with soap and water mixture. Pull off the liner diagonally on smaller sheets and straight down on larger sheets.
4. When liner is completely removed and adhesive has been sprayed, spray the cleaned glass surface with soap and water mixture again.
5. The person holding the film will then apply the film to the glass making sure the film overlaps the frame on all sides.
6. Mist the back side of the film and finish as you would with any other install.
